The T1000 range of “Severe Duty” Warrior winches were originally designed as highly advanced prototypes for military application. This series has been designed to perform in severe climates and the harshest environments imaginable as an essential prerequisite. After successful operations in the field & following many plaudits at last year’s Defence and Security Equipment International Expo, the decision was made to allow the T1000 range to become widely available for general use. Available in both 12v or 24v options, with either steel or the more widely preferred military grade “Armortek Extreme” ropes, the T1000 Series range from 10,000lbs (4.545 Tonne) right up to the colossal 22,000 pounder (10 Tonne). The T1000 could be a complete game changer as it is a more than capable solution for any Industrial, Commercial or Military applications requiring a truly fully functional battle ready unit, or for those individuals who just demand the ultimate beast of a Warrior on their truck. Like its namesake, T1000 series is undoubtedly one of the most the most advanced and durable machines on the market, it really is the best of the best.
