Optional- Free Proactive Health Research Participation

EpiPaws is developing a health monitoring test that looks at aging rate. This technology has the ability to identify environmental variables (such as food, exercise, & pharmaceuticals) that are affecting your pet's health (positively or negatively) and are things that you can change to make your pet healthier. By participating, you'll receive free health insights as research progresses and possibly access to free proactive health product samples & health testing.
