

Quality and Food Safety

We take your pet's safety and well-being very seriously. A top priority of ours is making sure our products are safe and delivering high-quality nutrition that you can feel good about feeding your pet.

Our Products

We proudly produce every single bag of VICTOR kibble in our own Texas-based facility. We source our high-quality ingredients from trusted partners and carefully test raw materials before accepting them into our plant.

This allows us full control of the production process from start to finish so that every bag of food that leaves our plant can meet our high-quality standards.

Our Testing

Every batch of VICTOR kibble is tested multiple times during the manufacturing process. Our production process undergoes tens of thousands of quality inspections every week, including sampling finished products every 2 minutes. This approach far exceeds industry practices to meet our high standards.

Additionally, we adhere to a strict test-and-hold process where all batches must test negative for salmonella before entering our distribution network.

Our Facility

We continually strive to elevate our standards of quality and safety to ensure we're exceeding industry and government standards.

Our robust sanitation process includes continuous swabbing throughout the facility and working to eradicate bacteria like salmonella. In addition to consistent daily cleanings, our facility and manufacturing equipment undergo a 12-hour deep clean at the start of each week.

Our facility has been certified through the SQF Program since 2018. This rigorous food safety program, recognized by the Global Food Safety Initiative, scores all sectors of the food supply chain on a scale of 100. Since then, VICTOR has consistently scored 98 or higher, which is considered Excellent.

Our Ingredients

We source our high-quality ingredients from trusted partners and carefully test each raw material before accepting it into our plant.

In 2018, we established our own trucking company to maintain better control of the ingredients we source — most of which come from within a day's drive of our East Texas facility.

Our Team

Our quality and manufacturing teams are made up of top industry experts with many decades of combined experience. They constantly benchmark, evaluate and strive to improve our capabilities.

We are proud of our team, our production facilities and the safe, high-quality products we make. We invite you to learn more about the VICTOR product that is right for your pet's needs.
